ST. BENEDICT'S COLLEGE.

THIS COLLEGE, founded in the year 1858, is conducted by the Benedictine Fathers. It is incorporated under the laws of the State of Kansas, and empowered to confer academic honors.

The object of this institution is to impart to young men a thorough moral and mental training, so as to fit them for any position in life.

The College is situated in the north-eastern part of Atchison, on a thirty-acre plat of ground, which extends to the river bank. The site is elevated and commands an excellent view of the Missouri River and surroundings; the play grounds, large, well shaded, and supplied with gymnastic apparatus, are really a delightful place to spend the hours of recreation. The building has been put up with an eye to healthfulness, comfort, and safety.

There are forty apartments in the college, utilized as study-rooms, class-rooms, dining-rooms, and bath-rooms, besides a large society hall on the ground floor, and four large dormitories, all roomy and well ventilated by airflues; the underground drainage system is very complete, and the margin of danger from infected water, defective drainage, close and unwholesome rooms, and especially from fire, is either entirely removed or reduced to a minimum. There is a stand pipe, with hose and connections in each story, besides a fire plug outside of the building; but, what is better, there are no defective flues built by contract, and none are needed, as the college buildings are heated by steam on the low pressure system, and the chimneys for the kitchen and the boiler-room are veritable factory stacks. In addition to this, the College is provided with a large stairway of brick and stone, which can neither burn nor melt; it extends from the footing-course to the comb of the roof, and communicates with each floor by double-acting fire-proof folding doors, and with the outside by a vaulted passage. It will be seen from all this that little has been left undone to insure the comfort and well-being of the students. The kitchen is in charge of a community of Sisters, which is saying for this department all that is necessary.

The College has two distinct libraries, one of which is for the use of students. The works of the students' library cover nearly every department of literature. The current news and literature of the day are supplied by different papers and magazines. This library contains two thousand three hundred volumes, and additions to it are made every year, both by purchase and donations. The College library proper is for the special use of professors and at present contains ten thousand volumes.

The College also possesses quite a museum of specimens in Natural History. Aside from the importance that researches in Natural History have assumed by the light they have thrown on the past history of our earth and its inhabitants, of its minerals, animals, and plants, Natural History is sufficiently interesting in itself to deserve at least the leisure moments at our disposal. There is nothing so little or so apparently trivial in God's grand world as not to be made to teach a useful lesson, and at the same time become an endless source of pure, interesting, and wholesome recreation.

The Herbarium contains about two thousand specimens, mounted and classified. Ornithology is represented by a large case of mounted birds, in which every order has one or more specimens. The collection is particularly interesting as the specimens are all Kansas birds, some of which are rare, at least in their former haunts, Geology and Paleontology are both fairly represented, the latter by fossils from various sections of the United States, more particularly from our own immediate surroundings. The mineralogical specimens are quite numerous. Besides a number of the rarer and more precious minerals, the museum contains fully a ton of lead, zinc, copper, silver, and other useful ores.

Ethnology, Herpetology, Entomology, and other branches also come in for a little corner in the museum. In short, there is hardly a department, the study of which may not be fairly entered upon with what material has found its way into the museum, and new specimens are being added almost daily.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

The plan of instruction embraces two regular and distinct courses—the Classical and the Commercial. For admittance into the Classical or the Commercial Course, a competent knowledge of English, Arithmetic, and Geography is requisite. For those deficient in any of these branches a Preparatory Course has been instituted.

Instructions are also given in the German and French languages, Music, and Drawing.

CLASSICAL COURSE.

The CLASSICAL COURSE is designed to impart a thorough knowledge of Christian Doctrine; of the English, German or French, Latin, and Greek Languages; of Pure and Mixed Mathematics; of the Physical Sciences, and of Mental Philosophy. Students that have completed this course and passed a satisfactory examination, may receive the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

Those that take the degree of Bachelor of Arts may obtain the degree of Master of Arts, by devoting two years to a learned profession, or to literary or scientific studies.

GENERAL REMARKS.

COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENTS.

STUDENTS are divided into three departments; the Ecclesiastical, the Commercial, and the Minim.

Only such boys are admitted to the ECCLESIASTICAL department as intend to study for the priesthood. They have special instructions and exercises adapted to the vocation to which they aspire. Students of this department must make it a point to execute with precision, gravity, and decorum, whatever pertains to divine service. To this end they must practice the Gregorian Chant, attend the instructions in ceremonies, and take part in the various ecclesiastical solemnities of the year. In the Ecclesiastical department are the students of the Diocesan Preparatory Seminary. Father Director is ex-officio the Prefect.

The students of the ECCLESIASTICAL and the COMMERCIAL COURSE are divided according to age into a Junior and a Senior department, each of which has its own study hall.

The MINIM department is for boys from twelve to fourteen years of age.

THE ACADEMIC YEAR.

The Academic year consists of two sessions of five months each. The first session begins on the first Tuesday of September, and ends on the last day of January; the second begins on the first of February, and ends in the last week of June.

Experience teaches that the students who are promptly on hand at the beginning of the school year, show the most uniform and satisfactory progress during the course. It is therefore desirable that all students begin their studies at the start; still admission will be given at any time of the first session. Pupils upon arriving will be examined and assigned to the classes for which their previous studies have qualified them; but in no case will a student be received for the First Latin Class after September 30, unless he is well able to advance with that class.

An examination of one week's duration is held before Christmas, and another at the end of the school year. Reports are sent to the parents or guardians four times during the year, to inform them of the conduct and improvement of their sons or wards.

ORDER OF THE DAY.

DIRECTIONS TO PARENTS.

Every student must be provided with one Sunday and two every-day suits of cloths, six shirts, four suits of underwear; eight pairs of socks, six pocket handkerchiefs, three pairs of shoes, a cotton sack for soiled linen, four napkins, four towels, and all articles necessary for toilet. Laundry goods must be marked with the owner's name in full.

Leave of absence will not be granted to students during the school year, except for the Christmas Holidays. Those that enjoy this privilege must return in time to attend the first class call after the Holidays. There is no vacation at Easter.

RULES OF DISCIPLINE.

STUDENTS should at all times be obedient and respectful to the Officers and Professors of the College, observe habitual politeness towards one another, and always observe the rules of propriety.

2. Students must obtain special permission in the following particulars: To leave the College premises, to attend calls from visitors, to absent themselves from any of the regular exercises, to leave the study-hall or speak to a fellow-student during study hours, or to do anything else out of the regular routine.

3. All students that return to the institution after an absence of several days, must report to Father Director before they enter the study-hall.

4. Students should at all times be where duty calls them; thus: During study-hours they are to be in the classroom or study-hall; during hours of recreation they are to be on the play grounds, or in the place assigned them for recreation.

5. No student shall retain money in his possession.

6. Strict silence is to be observed during study and class-hours, when going to and coming from the chapel and dining-room, in the dormitories, washrooms, and closets.

7. The use of tobacco is prohibited.

13. The College authorities will not be responsible for books or articles of clothing left at the institution.

14. Letters should be written on Saturdays and Sundays only, and all communications, whether sent or received, are subject to the inspection of Father Director.

15. On days of General Communion, all the students that have made their first Communion, are to receive the Holy Eucharist during the Mass at which they usually assist.

16. Causes of expulsion may be: Taking articles that belong to fellow students; leaving the premises without permission; unwillingness to take corrections; using vile or profane language, and general indifference to the regulations of the College.

MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP.

THE attention of students is called to the fact that a free scholarship has been founded as a lasting memorial of the FOURTEEN HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY of the birth of St. Benedict. It is intended by this foundation to offer some apt, diligent, and deserving pupil an opportunity of finishing his Classical Course gratis. The privilege of the scholarship is open to students from all quarters, and will be awarded to the one that shall score the highest number of points in a competitive examination. All that desire to avail themselves of this opportunity, will please take notice of the following points:

- 1st. Applicants must study with a view to the priesthood.
- 2nd. Their conduct must be irreproachable.
- 3rd. They must be prepared to enter the Fourth Year of the Classical Course.

Those that intend to compete for the scholarship must notify Father Director not later than the 15th of August. On receiving this notice the applicant will be informed of the day when the competitive examination will be held. The successful candidate will be entitled to free tuition in the Classical Course, board and lodging for a period of three years.

The next competitive examination for the Memorial Scholarship will be held in September, 1895.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

FROM the engraving on the preceding page, the reader may obtain a better idea than from a lengthy description, of what a small beginning the College had, and how rapid and healthy its growth has been. What the first building was, may be seen from the small engraving in the upper left-hand corner. It consisted of a two and a half story brick building, thirty by eighty feet, abutting against the small frame parish church. The embryo college was finished in 1859; and though the structure appeared quite large enough for those early unsettled days, on what was then the western frontier, it was not long before it became necessary to enlarge the buildings. Only two years later, Father Augustine Wirth, O. S. B., the founder of the College, undertook the erection of an addition. As the small engraving in the upper right-hand corner shows, this addition was joined to the east end of the existing building, running southward, parallel to the church. In that condition the building remained until 1866, when the parish had grown to such an extent, that the church was found too small for the accommodation of the parishioners. In the spring of that year, Father Augustine began the erection of a large brick and cut stone church, sixty four by one hundred and fifty three feet. The lower left-hand figure gives a fair idea of the style and comparative size of the structure. Three years of incessant labor were required to place the massive structure in a sufficiently fair way of completion to be dedicated and opened for the use of the congregation. The College went on with its educational work, in its usual quiet way, until the centennial year dawned upon the country. Until this time the community of the Religious who conduct the College had no really permanent existence in Kansas, nor had provisions to this end been made. About all that had been done was to secure an efficient corps of professors from St. Vincent Abbey in Pennsylvania, the Mother House of the Order in the United States. But the College as such was an institution which existed merely from year to year, and might have to close its doors at any time that the Mother House should withdraw its aid. This state of affairs, it was seen, must always remain an important element of weakness in the institution, and, to say the least, could not but retard its efficiency, if it did not actually condition its very existence.

To give stability and permanence to the community and consequently to the College, as also to remove the barrier that heretofore had unavoidably hampered the development of the institution, an effort was made to place the community on a footing that would give it individual existence, and make it dependent on its own resources. In order to bring this about, a petition was sent to the ecclesiastical authorities at Rome, with the request that the community, which had until now formal existence only as a Priory, be erected into an Abbey. During the centennial year this request was granted; the community and the College now entered upon a new phase of existence. Rt. Rev. Innocent Wolf was duly elected, confirmed, and installed the first Abbot, and on him, too, devolved the educational charge of the College. Within a few years, a new system of buildings was erected on a much larger scale, as the older buildings proved entirely inadequate to meet the ever increasing demands. In 1878 the start was made. That fall one section of the new building was under roof, and during the Christmas vacation of that year it was thrown open to the students. The cut in the lower right-hand corner shows its location and general appearance. Although this addition nearly doubled the room formerly available for the purposes of the College, it was soon found that full justice could not be done to the growing demand, unless the plan of the building was further developed. Accordingly, in 1883, the contract was let for an addition twice the size of the one erected in 1878. In the present stage, therefore, the main College building presents an unbroken front of a hundred and thirty-six feet in length, is fifty-four feet wide, and four stories high. The central cut in the engraving gives a view of the east front, with the church in the rear. The view is taken from the students' campus. The right central cut of the engraving is a view of the walk between the alley of trees, leading from the students' entrance to the play grounds. The knoll seen in the background overlooks the Missouri River and Bottoms for many miles up and down the stream, and is the point from which the left central view is taken. The spectator is looking south; before him is the road to the community cemetery, a few rods behind him; while in the distance is seen the railroad and wagon bridge, which spans the Missouri River at the foot of Main Street.

The frontispiece is a front view of the '93 addition. The new building together with the church and arcade has a frontage on Second Street of two hundred and thirty-eight feet. A tower, one hundred and thirty-three feet in height, rises above the north-eastern corner of the building, and serves the purpose of an observatory. From this sketch it will be seen that the career of the College has been a successful one from the beginning, and justifies the most sanguine expectations for the future.

MT. ST. SCHOLASTICA'S ACADEMY.

On the last page of the Catalogue the reader will find an engraving of Mt. St. Scholastica's Academy for young ladies, conducted by the Benedictine Sisters. This superb structure with the large tract of land on which it is situated, was purchased by the Sisters some years ago. Since that time they have erected another building just south of the one in the cut, which they use as convent for the community, and which is as large as the Academy proper. The east end of the chapel which forms the south portion of the convent building, can be seen in the engraving. The Sisters and their Academy are altogether independent of the Benedictine Fathers, and there is no connection or dependence whatever between the two institutions. The object of inserting the Prospectus of the Academy in this Catalogue is to make parents aware of the educational advantages of this city for both their sons and daughters; for undoubtedly, the majority of parents, whose boys and girls attend school away from home, prefer to have them in the same city or neighborhood.

THE ABBEY STUDENT.

“THE ABBEY STUDENT” is the title of a 32-page magazine, edited and published every two months, by the students of the College. The paper is exclusively a students’ paper, as contributions from other sources are never accepted. The high standard that the students reach in literary work can be seen from a glance at its pages. Although only in the fourth year of its existence, the magazine has already attained for itself the reputation of a first class College paper, thus giving unmistakable evidence that the English Course at St. Benedict’s is second to none in the country.

Besides having as its special object the literary advancement of the pupils, it aims likewise at furnishing points of interest to friends and old students outside of the institution. Old students especially will find its personal and local columns bright and breezy. Under the heading of Personals, the whereabouts and doings of old students are faithfully chronicled from month to month. The Local columns are a reflex of the daily life at College and the changes that occur.

All that have completed a College course, are expected to write intelligently on general topics. In the College paper, young writers will find an excellent field for the cultivation of their talents.

In each issue there is a Roll of Honor. On this Roll of Honor are the names of those students, whose conduct and application during the two previous months have given satisfaction to the faculty of the College. To have his name appear on this roll is always the ambition of the deserving student, the more so as it is rightly considered a severe punishment not to have it inserted.

Subscription fees: One Dollar a year in Advance.
